Material of the future

Aluminum is a modern metal which is strong, flexible and versatile. Its easy workability allows great designs for all kinds of applications. Due to its flexibility, it can be shaped and formed to be used for example on ceilings, walls, pillars, furniture and showcases.

On top of this, aluminum is the most environmentally friendly metal on earth. Aluminum is 100% recyclable and recycling requires only 5% of the energy that is needed to produce primary metal. That's why it is called the material of the future.
